Co-op Cash Draws

Organized tobacco farmers of the old belt made a flying start in marketing their crop last week when approximately 1,250,000 pounds were sold thru 15 cooperative floors which opened last Tuesday.

The very high quality of tobacco brought to the association floor shows the satisfaction of the old belt co-ops in the cash advances which ran over twenty dollars a hundred on many thousands of pounds.

Western North Carolina ran far ahead of her last years deliveries to the association in the opening week and Virginia farmers in spite of the trop surprised the association warehousemen with the heavy deliveries which reached 300,000 pounds last week in Danville.

Hundreds of farmers who are dissatisfied with the low averages of the auction markets in Western North Carolina and Virginia where opening prices were around 14 cent at Winston-Salem and 17 cents at Danville, have recently signed the cooperative marketing contracts. They are bringing their tobacco to the association floors where the advances on all grades are higher than those of last year. The slump of the open markets in Eastern North Carolina is evidenced by the report of the North Carolina Department of Argiculture which compares the average price of $10.95 received by tobacco farmers last month with their average of $25.15 for September 1922.

The tobacco association has already received more than 40 million pounds of tobacco in its warehouses in three states this season with the large bulk of the Virginia-North Carolina crop still to reach the markets.

The Virginia Co-ops of the dark belt who last year brought sixty per cent of all Virginia dark tobacco to the cooperative floors are preparing for another successful season with a series of meetings running from Wednesday through Saturday of this week in Amherst, Amelia, Appomattox, Bedford, Buckingham, Caroline, Campbell, Cumberland, Dinwiddie, Goochland, Hanover Louisa, Nelson and Prince Edward counties.

In Eastern North Carolina three Superior Court Judges upheld the contract of the association last week and continued injunctions restraining members from delivering tobacco outside of the association. Judges Frank Daniels and Goldsboro continued an injunction until future hearing in court, against a landlord who though not a member of the association had seized the tobacco of a member tenant under claim of landlord's lien and claim and delivery.

Parent Teachers Meeting

The regular monthly meeting was held in the auditorium on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. After the order of business an interesting musical and literary program was rendered which was much enjoyed.

Prof. Crawley made a short talk, telling some things about the school, which concerns the entire community, namely, to keep the High School in the accredited list.

Miss Lemon, the field worker of the Parent Teachers Association, was present and gave a very interesting talk. She especially emphasized the meeting to be held in Richmond the last part of November. Mrs. C. F. James and Prof. Crawley were elected delegates to this meeting.

The attendance was not what it ought to be and our people must wake up to the interest of our school and the welfare of their children.

STATE CAPITAL

Health Board Reviews Year's Work.

Richmond—

The State Board of Health, in an all-day session held in the office of Commissioner Euston G. Williams, reviewed the work of the year and took up numerous new matters, including the development of child welfare work, which has been extended to pre-natal, early infancy and maternity work under the provisions of the Sheppard-Towner act; the extension of the antimalaria program and the bureau of epidemiology.

The report of the bureau of epidemiology showed that during the summer serious epidemics were averted by prompt action. One of these was the infantile paralysis outbreak near Fredericksburg reported July 6, the outbreak being stopped with a total of fifty-five cases.

Another was "Devil's Grip" or as the health officials call it "Dabney's Grip," because Dr. Dabney, of the university staff, described the malady in 1888. There were no deaths from the "Devil's Grip," but two or three deaths were subsequent to it.

It was announced that the State Board of Health would ask the Legislature for a smaller amount next session than was appropriated by last General Assembly.

Statue of Jefferson Offered To State.

Sec and Mrs. Rosewell Page have offered the State of Virginia the known model of the statue of Thomas Jefferson, by Ezekiel, presented to the late Thomas Nelson Page by the famous sculptor. The original statue stands at the University of Virginia.

In making the offer to Governor Trinkle the donor suggested that the model be placed in the rotunda of the new State office building. Although the gift has not yet been officially accepted by the State its acceptance is understood to be only awaiting the final selection of a suitable site, such a selection to be guided by the advice of a competent architect. It is now at "Oakland," the Hanover country home of the Page family. Governor Trinkle expressed the warmest appreciation of the tender of the model, saying that it would serve as a monument to the givers, to Thomas Jefferson and to Thomas Nelson Page. He took occasion to eulogize the high spirit of patriotism motivating the gift.

Navy Day Proclamation.

Governor E. Lee Trinkle issued the following proclamation urging Virginia to observe Navy Day, October 27, in a patriotic manner:

"To the People of Virginia:

"In the interest of the welfare of the Navy and of the Nation, I call upon the people of Virginia to observe in appropriate and patriotic manner, Saturday, October 27, 1923, which has been designated and set aside as Navy Day in the United States.

"The past year has witnessed events which give point to the truth that our Navy not only is a weapon of defense, but an instrument of mercy. We should remember the great services of the Navy to the Nation and to humanity.

"It is for this reason that I take pleasure in urging upon the citizenship of Virginia a most cordial observance of Navy Day throughout the State, in recognition of the past gallant services and future protection of the first line of defense—Our Navy."

Building Work On State Office Building.

At a conference of department heads with Governor E. Lee Trinkle it was determined that the contractors on the new State office building shall concentrate their work on certain floors so as to permit several of the State departments to move into the new building shortly after January 1.

The State Highway Department, and the departments of health, education, insurance and banking, militia, industrial commission, live stock board and bureau of vital statistics will be among the first to occupy the building.

Dog Licenses Tags Sent To Counties.

Parcel post packages are going to the treasurers of the 100 counties and the twenty cities in Virginia carrying 339,800 dog license tags for the year 1924, which will be available to dog owners the first of November.

The treasurers make requisition to the State Department of Game and Inland Fisheries for the number of dog license tags they will need and J. Taylor Curtis, field secretary, attends to the work of seeing that their orders are filled.

The 339,800 dog license tags is an increase of tags distributed last year.

Prohibition Men Busy.

Several reports have been received from State prohibition operatives. Inspector J. C. Dillard reports that capture of a 100-gallon still and the destruction of 1,000 gallons of mash, together with distilling apparatus. Inspector Lamber records the arrest of Mrs. Al Teel, of Haymarket, on a charge of storing secret spirits, and also mentions the arrest of Templeton Versullion and Estis Watkins, both of Haymarket, on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

Had to Wait a While.

"Does your sister go to school, too? I asked a little girl as she passed my yard. "No," she answered me, "she is waiting to get enough olds so she can think lessons."

Millions Killed for Furs.

It is estimated that nearly 70,000,000 wild animals are killed yearly for their fur.

Maintenance Road Work

Orders have been given by the State Highway Commision to lay off a portion of its maintenance force that had been greatly increased during the late spring and summer.

All heavy outfits will be curtailed and the force will be reduced to its normal size, where it can keep in good condition the roads heretofore improved and put in a maintainable condition.

It is customery with all State Highway Departments to cut their abnormal maintenance force about this season of the year, after the rush, as it is unwise to disturb old road beds at this late season by heavy machine work, for they will not compact, if disturbed, and settle by winter, thereby becoming impassable during the spring months.

Much extraordinary maintenance work was necessary during the past season and necessitated quite a large expenditure to put the 6400 miles of road now under maintenance in a traveable condition.

At the end of the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1923, there was approximately $300,000 unexpended in this fund and the collections for the balance of the calendar year will run this fund up to between $450,000 and $500,000, which will give a fund adequate in every way to take care of the proper maintenance of all the roads in the State Highway system for the remaining portion of the year.

Every mile of road in the system will be under either gang or patrol maintenance and no deterioration will be allowed to take place. In the spring the heavy equipment will be started out again and used throughout the summer. The normal maintenance force operating until spring will be sufficient in every way to keep the highways up to their present standard and no deterior ation should take place other than ordinary wear.

Our idea of a perfect world is one in which our friends will b cas liberal with their money as they are with their advice.

The End of That.

Wittily Expressed.

A severe critic, speaking of a work in terms which at first appear flattering, said: "There is a great deal in this book which is new and a great deal that is true." Then he added: "But it unfortunately happens that those parts which are new are not true, and those that are true are not new."

Hix and Glenn Shoot

Monday—W. H. Glenn shot Thomas H. Hix in the fleshy part of his leg, conflicting a serious but not dangerous wound. Glenn and Hix gives substantially the same version of the affair which took place near Hix's home. They both emptied their revolvers at each other at close range, Glenn having a 38-calibre and Hix a 45-calibre pistol.

Mr. Hix was resting comfortably in his bed last night, where Dr. Alsop was in attendance. He asked if Mr. Glenn was wounded and expressed his gratification when told that he was not. Glenn at his home, expressed himself as being glad Hix was not worse shot. Some bad feeling between the two men was engendered last summer when Glenn was a candidate for the democratic nomination for supervisor in Prospect district, which had its culmination in the affair of Monday.

Both men are prominent citizens and near neighbors. It so happens that W. H. Glenn is the only justice of the peace in Prospect district, and if a warrant, or warrants were issued they will have to come from another district. When the young man came here to secure a doctor and gave the first news of the shooting there was great excitement and nearly every car in the village went either to the Glenn or the Hix home, and many went to both places.

Reunion Of Veterans in Gray in Richmond.

Plans for a brigade reunion of the Stonewall Jackson and R. E. Lee Camps, No. 1, of Confederate Veterans, are being considered by both camps and the affair, which will be a social feature, will take place sometime this winter, presenting some of the most attractive features ever included in a Confederate reunion program of this nature. Vets of the Spanish American War and the World War will be invited, and wives and friends also will be in attendance.

Decision to this effect was reached at a recent meeting of the Lee Camp Veterans here, reports of the State camp at Roanoke and other events were discussed. Organization of the society of matrons, sponsors and maids who have attended various conventions will be sponsored also by the Confederate veterans.

Seeks Exemption From Gasoline Tax.

Attorney-General John R. Saunders has been asked by L. C. Williams, counsel for the Richmond Rapid Transit Company, to pass on the question as to the exemption of the company from the payment of the 3-cent tax on gasoline. The petition states that the company uses approximately 15,000 gallons of gasoline each month. Exemption from the 3-cent gasoline would mean a refund by the State of approximately $450 per month.

It is said that the motor fuel purchased by the company is from sources outside the State and does not pass through any local dealer's hand
